

Privacy Policy

Centersite acts in accordance with the current privacy policy and treats in a clear, objective, and transparent way the data processed by the General Data Protection law.

What is Personal Data

Any information related to a person that identifies them or that, used in combination with other processed information, identifies an individual. Also, any information through which it is possible to identify a person or contact him.

Regarding Data Subjects Rights

The holder of personal data is entitled to obtain from the controller, at any time and upon request:

- Access to data;
- Correction of incomplete, inaccurate or outdated data;
- Anonymity, blocking or deletion of data;
- Deletion of personal data;
- Revocation of consent.

Appointments

We do not store data or share it on our website. Your access is only used anonymously so that we can simply count how many visits we receive on our portal without identifying who accesses it.

Responsibilities

Considering that no security system is absolutely secure, Centersite is exempt from any liability for any damages and/or losses arising from failures, access to secret passwords, viruses or invasions of the database of our structure and of websites and platforms developed by same.

We undertake not to sell, disclose, transfer or otherwise distribute personal data to third parties. In this regard, we inform you that the provider of the platform and technology for our website and the websites and platforms developed by us will act as the operator of the data and undertakes to treat them in accordance with this Privacy Statement.

The data provided on the developed platforms are intended only for the requested purpose.

Centersite is available for any clarification by e-mail: suporte@centersite.com.br

Graciously,
